LAND PATENTS

IN

SUMNER COUNTY, KS

Settlement of Sumner County, Kansas began in 1870. Sections 16 and 36 of each township in Kansas had been granted to the state for school use, so patents for these sections were issued by the State of Kansas. The three miles across the southern end of the present county was the Cherokee Strip, the pathway of the tribe to their western hunting grounds. Sections 1 through 7 in townships adjoining Sedgwick County and some sections adjoining rivers were divided into lots for the legal description.

Dear Carol -

I think I noticed when I viewed the family manuscripts that you didn't have correct addresses for Fana Walcher (Blaine Walchers wife), also Sandra Joy, (Blaines daughter.)

May not be important but I'll give them to you.

HISTORY OF THE HEFLEY AND WALCHER FAMILY
from the writings of Jesse L. Hefley
(1st. cousin of C.D.L. Walcher)

"For the pioneer urge had been strong in the Hefley's and the Walchers for generations. They had come, originally just two small families, from Germany and settled, along with a group of German families, in Pennsylvania, Family legend has it that an epidemic of some sort developed on board ship. The Hefley father died, leaving his wife and little boy; the Walcher mother also died, leaving her husband and two or three small children. Some time later, having arrived and settled in their new homes, the remaining parents married each other," In telling this story my mother (Aunt Clementine Walcher Hefley) would always end wth,"and it was from that one little boy that all the Hefleys in Americe are descended.

Be that as it may, the German colony, or a portion of it, migrated in a generation to North Carolina and thence to Illinois. And it was to Illinois, in Montgomery Co. that my father (Uncle Lemuel Hefley) returned after the Civil War, to select a bride from amoug the Walchers, and to settle down to farming, the traditional family vocation. It was there I was born, but my earliest recallections are of preparation for departure to a new land and a better life.

Kansas had been much in the news, during the war and after;(1871) It seemed to be the frontier of the day---so to Kansas we were bound. Father, Mother, Henry, Hank and Jesse and a distant cousin of Mothers, Joe Rumpel,. Took the ferry across the Mississippi at St Louis with wagon and team of horses. First settled in Howard Co. "We fared better than many of the settlers because my father was a hunter." The timber and creek bottoms abounded with game of many sorts. Father owned an old long squirrel rifle and he used it with great success. Much of the time we had a freshly killed carcass of deer hanging about the place--also wild turkey, squirrels, rabbits, quail, prairie chickens, ducks and geese all from time to time--paid tribute to his marksmanship. Fish too!

Traded home and land in Howard Co. Kansas,to a roving preacher(Disciple Church or Campbellete), for a home in Woodson Co.(Belmont Kansas) Big white two story house and was postmaster there.(Great Uncle Lemuel). House also served as Wayside Inn.

1874--grasshopper year--swarms numbered in billions--ate everything in their path.

"John Walcher-nephew of my mother had gone out to Kansas from Illinois, 1873, and taken a claim in Sumner Co. (Merle Walcher lives now) He was caught in the sweep of grasshoppers and was wiped out, so in the late summer he loaded his family in a covered wagon and came to Belmont to spend the winter with us. There was his wife Cora, and two small children--Albert and Hattie.

I think the relatives were discovering that we had a big house. A brother of my mother,Henry,(John Henry my grandfather), a minister of the Evangelical Lutheran Church(Missouri Synod) had been living and preaching in western Missouri and Eastern Kansas(Jefferson Co.) He died suddenly leaving a widow and five small boys and little in the way of support.(A.M.B. and his brothers.) They had drifted back to the family in Illinois and later to the Welker home near Perryville Missouri.

For some reason Aunt Lucretia(Ferns grandmother)(Elizabeth Lucretia Welker Walcher) determined to head west and arrangements were made for them to spend the winter with us. My father took his wagon and team and went over into Missouri to meet them and bring them home. Someone from the old neighborhood in Perryville, Mo. brought them part way. The clan was gathering and the big house was bulging. We boys who were old enough all went to a little school there in the bush about a mile from our village.

John Walcher seemed not to have become discouraged by the grasshoppers experience and planned to go back to his Sumner Co. claim in the spring. There was unoccupied land there to be had for the taking, and a dollar and a quarter an acre due and payable before the claim could be proved up. My fathers eyes glowed as the folks would sit around the fire and discuss the possibilities. John Walcher and Pa(Uncle Lem) went during the winter to see it. (Sumner Co.) He filed on a quarter section adjoining Johns place and came home determined to move in the spring.

"We had two Albert Walchers with us now. One was John Walcher's boy and the other Aunt Lucretia's oldest boy,about 14 , or five years older than I." He was already his mothers right arm and s real man in his household.(A.M.B. Walcher)

The two Alberts, having been brought together at our place, something had to be done to distinguish them,so they become, and so remained, Big Al and Little Al, based upon their ages.

"The Hefley's and John Walcher families along with U.S. Walcher, one of Aunt Lucretia's boys, set out for Sumner Co. We had two wagons and 8 head of milk cows. U.S. came along to help with the cows. Aunt Lucretia and the rest of her family were to come later.

"Our nearest Post Office was South Haven(5 miles southeast) but Wellington was the County seat. It was 10 miles north and a little east. Both had been established only 2 or 3 years before. 1871. The railroads had not yet come closer than Wichita--so these little towns did not serve as marketing points for settlers crops.

The railroads had not yet come closer than Wichita--so those little towns did not serve as marketing points for settlers across

"Aunt Lucretia Walcher and her boys came down from Woodson Co. Kans. and were able to settle on a partially improved place near us. Our reports went back to Illinois and several more families came. The Blackwelders, the Granthams, the Poppewells, the Ridenours, the Whitakers and several other Walcher families--the Harkeys--all relatives or acquantances from Montgomery Co. Illinois, moved in to increase our group. In time the whole community became known as the Illinois neighborhood. Buffalo bones were picked up, sold and shipped east to be ground into meal for fertilizer.(a means of livelyhood) sold prairie chickens too and used also for food. Planted corn first spring by chopping slits in ground with an axe and dropping in grains. It produced amazingly in the new sod without cultivation. Watermelons, canteloupe, pumpkins, squash,piemelons and citrons, planted like the corn, grew like weeds. We hauled them in by wagon loads, piled the surplus by the cow lot and fed it to the stock until mid-winter. Started a small orchard. Sent back to Illinois for Osage Orange seed(hedge) and planted small nursery patch--later to be transplanted and used as fences. Also served as windbreaks and shelter for small game and birds.

"Hank Hefley and I, together with several of the Walcher boys were in Shoofly bottom on a rabbit hunt in the snow. We stopped in the creek bottom since there was timber there, had built a fire and were just sitting around relaxing and talking. The dogs uncovered and killed a big woods rat. Someone proposed we cook it and find out how a rat tasted. I skinned it and was principle chef. We cut it into small pieces and toasted it over the fire on sticks. We decided the meat was alright, but since we had no salt it was not very palatable."

"Later we were down in Indian territory on a hunt. Pa had brought Hank and Me and Albert Walcher(A.M.B.) (tho' he never hunted much,) had brought his wagon with his brother Ben and cousin Tom Wynn. We camped out for the night, having enough water for supper, but none for breakfast. We started out the next morning for water and a permanent camp site, leaving the wagons. Hank and I were back by noon--having had no luck--Pa wasn't back yet--everyone else was tired,hungry and impatient. A big hawk lit in a tree near by and one of the boys killed it. We had nothing better to do so we dressed and cooked it as we had the rat only this time we had salt, but we decided neither salt, sauce nor masters touch could ever make that bird good to eat. Sinilarly, at one time or another, we tried nearly everything that grew. We had heard the Indians ate everything and we thought we were as good as the Indians!"

"Some of us took seriously to the business of learning to walk a tight rope. We never progressed to the point of getting the rope high in the air, but Charlie Walcher and I did get a fair job of staying on it.

"Deb Whitten used to come to our house to spark Dorcas Grantham (a girl helping mother with the housework.)

"Cheverie" Even good middle aged farmers such as my father joined the all male party(except the bride and maybe one of the mothers) for the Cheverie. Father was with us the night Beaman Smith got married. U.S.Walcher had married Beamans sister not so long before so Beaman was sort of kinfolks.

"A little later(in late1870's) a special school district was created and a new school built a mile north of our farm. This became Illinois school, so named because so many of the families had come from that state."

My father was on the first school board. Quite a controversy arose over the location and it was built in the middle of the section. A few years later a new board decided to move it down to the east corner where it would have cross-roads serving it in all directions. Fearing the displeasure and possible restraint of the faction made its plans and had it moved and in place during the night. The building sets there yet. They were more than just school houses, They were community houses and social centers for the district--also used for religious services, serving all dimonination s.

These people were not only immersionists, but for all practical purposes, believed that baptism within itself contained the saving grace. This made it necessary that baptism be performed at once; otherwise a willing soul might be lost.

There was a baptizing to be done. They chopped out a hole and the minister stood on the edge, held Al's hands and helped him slide off into the water. It was almost neck deep. They paused a minute while the ceremony was read and Al was pushed out of sight beneath the water. When he came out he looked and acted like he was nearly frozen but when someone asked if he were cold he said,"No, I hardly felt it."

I would be the last to say he did. Al was a perfectly sane and normal young man, practical and level headed far in advance of his years. But odd things happened and do happen under the banner of religion.

"One of the Walcher boys, Uncle Ben, was for years my fathers most faithful companion in the hunt. Older than I and less addicted to school, he got the jump on me by quite a little. I recall one trip the two of them made into the Territory when they spent 2 weeks and brought back 303 prairie chickens. These netted well over $100., good pay in those days. Another time the two of them brought in 5 antelope and six deer, besides some turkeys. This meant big money for us.

In the fall of 1887 ther was just nothing left to do but to sell out and give up our farm. We were deeply in debt--the farm having always been mortgaged. John A. Walcher took over the farm and its mortgages. John later did not want the farm and resold it to Charlie Walcher. After two or three years Charlie gave up and let the place go to his brother Al. (Ferns father)

Big Al (A.M.B.) was one of the few who never let the country lick him. The oldest of a family of five orphan boys, he worked hard and from early boyhood helped support himself and his brothers. He gave up most of the pleasures we others enjoyed in our youth, but his little place on the knoll across the creek prospered. While still a very young man he began to acquire these additional properties from families which has to give up. He took over the Barrringer place across the road from us, a school section and several other farms in the community. He had little more cash than the rest of us, but could get most of the property by merely assuming a debt. Somehow he managed to make the payments and eventually came out on top.

We Hefley's went to Arkansas City and from our Sumner Co. farm and then to Norman Okla.--still all unsettled except for the Indians.

"I decided to give up the hunting in January for a term in school, but Pa and Hank continued. Ben Walcher was with them, also. We had written him of our decision to spend the winter hunting and Ben was never one to let even one hunting expedition get away from him. So he spent the winter with us.

Sometime during that year Charlie D.L.Walcher had heard of, and made arrangements to attend school at Ft Scott,. It was a dinominational school known as the Ft Scott Normal College.1888. Actually was hardly a college and we certainly were not ready for college work, but Charlie go up there and liked what he found. He began writing me and urging me to come.

Elizabeth Lucretia Welker Walcher and five sons came to Sumner Co, Ks. with the Lem Hefley family and a John Walcher family in 1875 in a covered wagon driven by AMB Walcher, age 14 yrs.,having very small possessions. They first lived in a dug-out with 1 room above it. They fished and hunted for their meat and selling surplus to buy other supplies.

They worked out for other families in the neighborhood for their room and board. Uncle Rush's story about being sent out to pick up cobs to be used for heating purpose and not having shoes---was barefoot and froze his toes in the cold weather and Grandpa AMB bringing him home to care for him.

Elizabeth Lucretia (May 26,1839) died in 1878 and was buried at Attebery (Pleasant Hill) Cemetery. Grandpa planted the 2 cedar trees to mark her grave.

Gilbert remembers grandmother Lidonia purchasing the bronze plaques to mark the graves there and his going with her to place them in the cemetery. A wooden box was made and cement mixed and poured in it and the bronze plaques placed in the cement and left to set up at the head or each family members grave.

SOME PAST HISTORY OF THE WALCHER FAMILY

Fiewe

The Walcher family came originally from Germany, first settling in Pennsylvania. Later they migrated to North Carolina and then to Montgomery Co. Illinois. Grandfather John Henry Walcher married Elizabeth Lucretia Welker They were both born in the I8 30s. The Welker home was located near Perryville, Missouri. Grandfather John H. Walcher enlisted in the Civil War, with the Union Forces, October I8, I86I, serving in Company F, 5th Regiment, Infantry, Missouri Volunteers. He served only a short time, being discharged because of poor eyesight. He then studied for the ministry and came to Jefferson, County Kansas where he farmed and preached.in the Lutheran church.It was in Jefferson County he died, and is buried there. Grandmother Lucretia Walcher took her little family of boys back to the Welker home in Missouri for a time. They also spent some time with relatives in Hillsboro, Illinois. Later they came to [redacted], Co. Kansas to spend a winter with the Hefleys. Great Aunt Clementine Hefley was a sister of Grandfather John H. Walcher.

Woodson Co

town of Belmont

Kansas was much in the news at that time as a new frontier, with land to be had for the taking plus a dollar and a quarter an acre. So in April of I875, the Hefley family, another John Walcher family and Grandmother Lucretia Walcher with her boys, came to Sumner County, ten miles south of Wellington and filed their claims. The Hefleys lived where Bob Walcher now lives, the John Walchers across the road and Grandmother Lucretia settled on a partially improved place in the section where Albert M.B. Walcher lived for many years. They all came in covered wagons some pulled by oxen, driving 8 head of milk cows. South Haven was their Post Office and Wellington was the County Seat. The railroad was no closer than Wichita.

Several other families who came to settle in the same community were, the Popplewells, Granthams, Harkeys, Ridenours and Whitakers. Some of them relatives of the Walchers. So many came from Illinois that, the community and later the school became known as Illinois.

Some of their early experiences in their new homes are interesting. They told of picking up buffalo bones -to be sold- shipped out , and ground into fertilizer. They went down into Indian Territory and hauled out wood some to be sold, and some used in their building. That first spring they planted corn by chopping slits in the ground with an ax, then dropping in the grain. It produced amazingly in the new sod without cultivation. Watermelons, muskmelons, pumpkins, squash and citrons planted like the corn, grew like weeds. They started a small orchard and sent back to Illinois for Osage Orange seed (hedge) and planted a small nursery--later transplanting it and using it for fences.

Great Uncle Lem Hefley was a hunter and kept the families supplied with meat as well as helping with their livelyhood. He used to go down into "Indian Territory" now Oklahome to hunt. He took some of his own boys as well as Albert, Ben and U. S. Walcher and their Cousin Tom Wynn. Uncle Ben Walcher was for years a faithful companion of Uncle Lem Hefley on his hunting expeditions. On one of those trips they brought back 303 Prairie chickens. These netted over $I00.00, which was good pay in those days. A nother time they brought back 5 Antelope, 6 deer and some turkeys, which meant food for all and big money.

The boys spent much time fishing and playing on "Shoofly" west of their homes. Cousin Jesse Hefley told of some of their pranks. Once they roasted a woodrat and a hawk. They did not find either very palatable, but they had heard that the Indians ate most everything so decided to try it too. Jesse Hefley and Charles D.L. Walcher tried to walk a tight rope, but didn't get very high in the air. They all went to a Chavari for Beaman Smith. Uncle U.S. Walcher had married Beaman's sister so he was sort'a kinfolk. Jesse Hefley also told of Uncle U.S. Walcher racing his strawberry roan with a team of mules driven by Rue Chenoweth home from a school program.

Grandmother Lucretia Walcher died in I878 leaving five boys orphans. Albert M.B., Benjiman I., Andrew U. S., Charles D. L., and Rush Q. .

Perryville

Great Aunt Eliza Welker came from Missouri to keep house for the boys . Uncle Charlie and Uncle Rush both lived with neighbor families too, for a time working for their keep.The story has been told of Uncle Rush picking up cobs in the freezing weather and thereby losing several toes.

There was not too much schooling for those boys, but Uncle Charlie Walcher and Jesse hefley did attend Ft. Scott Normal College in I888.

In January I883 Albert M. B. Walcher went back to Perryville Missouri and married Lidonia Alice Wynn, whom he had met there while staying in his Grandparents, the Welkers, home. They rode into Perryville on horseback, with the rest of the Wynn family coming in the wagon for the ceremony. They rode on a Steamboat up the Mississippi river to St Louis and took the train from there to Wellington, Kansas, Where some of the boys met them in a wagon to take them home.

Uncle U. S. Walcher married Clara B. Smith in I887

Uncle C.D.L. Walcher married Jennie M. Paddock at Raymond, Illinois in January I890.

Uncle R. Q, Walcher married Carrie Alderson in October, I893.

Uncle Ben. I. Walcher remained a batchelor.

Rev. John Henry Walcher Born November 6, 1833 in South Carolina. Died July 2, 1868, Jefferson County, Kansas Buried there.

Elizabeth Lucretia Welker Walcher born in Perry County Missouri May 20th, 1839. Died December 12, 1878 in Sumner County Kansas. Buried in Attebery (Pleasant Hill) cemetery - south of Wellington.

Cherokee Strip Run . . .

Ten or 12 miles along, we came upon a large work horse lying dead by the trail. No owner was in sight. Apparently he had gone on afoot. A great many horses, both good and bad, went out the same way that day.

After a half hour or so, we began to notice that every time we passed a little creek or a clump of brush we would find horses running beside us which had not been there before. These animals were hardly sweating at all while ours was in a lather.

We soon began to understand that the registration plan had failed miserably in its purpose; that men who had registered the first day, or the second, had departed quietly and for two day had been slipping over the border and hiding out in secluded spots. From those stations, they could emerge unobserved and join the rush as it swept past. Thus, while starting on a par with the leaders of the crowd, they had fresh horses to give them great advantage.

However, these were the timid Sooners. Their bolder brothers were yet out in front. At the end of an hour of riding, we reached the Chikaskia River just north of where the city of Blackwell, Okla. now stands. We rode into the water, dismounted and wet the mouths and heads of our horses. They were too hot and excited to drink, but we let them breathe while we counciled as to the next move.

We had expected this to be near the end of our journey. We had thought we would spread out and find claims in this valley and we knew we had ridden well ahead of the crowd. But, we only had to look around to see that we were not. All the bottom land seemed covered three and four deep already. These people could not have started at the border at twelve (o'clock) as we did. Most of them could not even be those who had joined us along the way. They had beaten us to desirable farms, but most of them had been there well ahead of our start at the Kansas line.

This was a bitter disappointment to us all. Al and the others from Kansas decided they had gone far enough. If they could find no claim in this bottom, they did not want one at all.

We left them there to turn up river and spent the rest of the day in an effort to uncover something the crowd might have overlooked.

The rest of us pushed on. We had come too far and worked too hard to be willing to admit defeat this early in the game. It was another 10 or 12 miles straight ahead to the Salt Fork. So we were off in a few minutes on the second leg of the journey.

And so the writings stop here. But, Mrs. Hyten reports her great Uncle Lem traveled on south, but to no avail, at least not during the strip run. He later claimed some land west of Enid, Okla. where he planned to homestead, but was forced to give it up when when the government discovered he had participated in the strip run. The Hefleys wound up near Norman, Okla. where Lem attended school and later graduated.

Cherokee Strip Run brings out thousands

Editor's note: The following is an actual accounting of the Cherokee Strip Run. This bit of history was submitted by Fern (Walcher) Arnspiger Hyten. It was written by Jesse L. Hefley, a first cousin of Hyten's father, A.M.B. Walcher aka Big Al. Also mentioned in the story is Lemonosky Hefley, an uncle of Big Al. The Hefleys lived 10 miles south of Wellington and 1-1/4 miles west. Hyten's parents lived just across the road.

We had grown to maturity in Southern Kansas near the border of "the strip." We had hunted it for years and knew it as we would our own farm. We all liked it and were determined to secure some homesteads there.

Jesse and Hank Hefley were to ride horses. Ben Walcher had a team, Bill and Babe. He would ride Bill. That left Babe, but two more horses were needed, one for Pa (Lem Hefley) and a team for the wagon.

Several weeks were spent in training our mounts. Extra rations of oats, extra grooming, and long daily rides at a fast pace gradually put them in top condition. Big Al Walcher was going to ride with us and two of the Wynn boys. Little Ed Winn would drive another supply wagon. Rush Walcher owned a big, strong, 2-year-old he would send along for Pa to ride. Al brought an extra to put in our team with Babe.

Some years before our departure from the farm in Kansas, Al had married Lidonia Wynn. We had known all the family of old, but this in a sense, made them (the Wynns) our relatives as well.

We were all set . . . a party of eight riders and two wagons. Lem, Jesse and Hank, Al and Ben, Tom and Ed and Charley Xahoe. And, there was reason for the large group. Our experiences in previous openings had proven the value of witnesses. The land office in Washington decreed that all who were to enter must register ahead of the run and must carry on their person certificates of that registration on the day of the opening and when filing upon the land.

The old border town of Hunnewell, Kan.. was one of several designated points and it was there we decided to go. There were thousands of people there, and I suspect a great many more than had been anticipated. We arrived before the registration started, but the crowd was so large that the work went very slowly.

The long lines of people were organized into companies of 25 with a captain for each company. This enabled the members of each group to maintain their positions in line by a single representative while the rest were free to come and go as they pleased.

At 12 o'clock the signal guns were fired and the whole mass sprung into motion. A truly great spectacle, such as one is likely to see only once in a lifetime.

I was appointed captain of a group which included our party. We had to camp there in line for the first day and night and into the next afternoon. We accomplished the enrollment in time that day to get our outfit assembled and moved to a point on the border some 10 miles east of Hunnewell. Here we rested in camp the last night before the opening and were in good shape and position to begin the big race.

The morning of the opening dawned clear, calm and warm, a little too warm for the tremendous ordeal of violent action that lay before us. We were aware of the weakness of horse flesh and thought we knew how to spare our mounts as well as the next man. We inquired of riders coming in as to whether the registration ever was completed. The report was that it had been, but the booths had stayed open all night to accomplish it.

The authorities had designated a neutral strip of land a hundred feet wide just over the state line on which all participants might assemble. This was to avoid as much as possible any damage to the property of individuals of the state of Kansas, and to provide starting places for all, of as nearly equal convenience as possible.

We happened to be located near the top of a ridge which afforded us an excellent view of the multitude for at least a half mile in both directions. The neutral strip seemed completely filled with people, horses and vehicles of one kind and another, as far as we could see. There were excellent horses, thoroughbreds, trained for the job ahead and far better than any we could boast.

There were also draft horses off the farms, quite unfit for the race. There were many light vehicles, two- and four-wheeled, some with one horse drawing them, some with two. A few men were on bicycles.

At 12 o'clock the signal guns were fired and the whole mass sprung into motion. A truly great spectacle, such as one is likely to see only once in a lifetime. Here and there, a single rider dashed quickly ahead, but for the most part the mass moved out with a kind of regularity and restrained speed that seemed to say, "we know we are in for a great race and much will depend upon on how we ride it."

As for our own party, our agreement to stay together was not as easy of accomplishment as one might suppose. Rush's young horse made trouble for Pa at once. He was highly bred and inclined to nervousness, and was scared of the great crowd and confusion. He went off with an uncontrollable dash that carried him clear of the crowd and of us. Pa reported he had been in the clear, well out in front of everyone, before he could take charge and slow down.

Hank's horse, too, was a problem. Insufficiently broken, a little Indian pony, she went wild in the melee of getting under way and tried to both throw her rider and to run away with him. But, Hank was equal to the occasion and able to keep his seat and regain control.

We got together and progressed calmly and steadily mostly at a long lope that ate up the miles. About six or seven miles into the race, we came across a man standing beside the trail. A horse which was unable to rise lay on the ground beside him. We drew rein to see if our help was needed, but he simply waved and shouted, "Don't mind me, boys, thank you. I will hold this claim right here if I can. Go right on, and good luck to you."

His horse had stepped into a ditch beside the road, had fallen and broken a leg. It would never get up. We saw the man no more.

From those stations, they could emerge unobserved and join the rush as it swept past. Thus, while starting on a par with the leaders of the crowd, they had fresh horses to give them great advantage.

However, these were the timid Sooners. Their bolder brothers were yet out in front. At the end of an hour of riding, we reached the Chikaskia River just north of where the city of Blackwell, Okla. now stands. We rode into the water, dismounted and wet the mouths and heads of our horses. They were too hot and excited to drink, but we let them breathe while we counciled as to the next move.

We had expected this to be near the end of our journey. We had thought we would spread out and find claims in this valley and we knew we had ridden well ahead of the crowd. But, we only had to look around to see that we were not. All the bottom land seemed covered three and four deep already. These people could not have started at the border at twelve (o'clock) as we did. Most of them could not even be those who had joined us along the way. They had beaten us to desirable farms, but most of them had been there well ahead of our start at the Kansas line.

This was a bitter disappointment to us all. Al and the others from Kansas decided they had gone far enough. If they could find no claim in this bottom, they did not want one at all.

We left them there to turn up river and spent the rest of the day in an effort to uncover something the crowd might have overlooked.

The rest of us pushed on. We had come too far and worked too hard to be willing to admit defeat this early in the game. It was another 10 or 12 miles straight ahead to the Salt Fork. So we were off in a few minutes on the second leg of the journey.

And so the writings stop here. But, Mrs. Hyten reports her great Uncle Lem traveled on south, but to no avail, at least not during the strip run. He later claimed some land west of Enid, Okla. where he planned to homestead, but was forced to give it up when when the government discovered he had participated in the strip run. The Hefleys wound up near Norman, Okla. where Lem attended school and later graduated.

Harold C. Byrd

Harold Clinton Byrd died at his home in Blackwell, Okla., Monday, Aug. 23, 1993, at the age of 77.

Harold was born on Jan. 24, 1916, in Barnsdall, Okla., the son of John Harrison and Eva (Richterberg) Byrd. He grew up in Oilton, Okla., and attended schools there.

He married Mildred Duckworth in 1937 in Hays, Kan. He entered the U.S. Army in July 1942 serving in the European Theater during World War II. Following his discharge he settled in Blackwell where he began working for the Blackwell Zinc Co. on the Furnace.

He married Anna Belle Bumgardner on Sept. 23, 1948, in Wellington, and they settled in Blackwell. He continued working at the Blackwell Zinc Co. until he became disabled. He later managed the American Legion where he was a member and was Past Senior-Vice Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. He was also a member of the A.A.R.P.

He also worked at Hahn Bros. Memorial Company from 1980-1984 for his daughter Mary, as a groundskeeper and maintenance man.

He is survived by his five daughters, Margaret Sue Ickes, Chula Vista, Calif., Linda Clark and Joyce Goans, both of Blackwell and Mary (Hutchison) Tucker and Brenda Reece, both of Wellington; stepdaughter, Peggy White, Tishomingo, Okla.; two sons, Gary Byrd of Hennessey, Okla., and Larry Byrd, Arkansas City; two sisters, Helen Owen and Gladys Broadway, both of Oklahoma City, Okla.; two brothers, J.B. Byrd and Clifford Byrd, both of Oklahoma City; 19 grandchildren, including Blake Hutchison, Kaeli Tucker, Bryan Reece, Aaron Reece and Amber Reece, all of Wellington; and four great-grandchildren.

Harold was preceded in death by his parents; one son, Harold Clinton Byrd Jr.; and two grandsons, Russell Edwin Creasey Jr. and Treavor Alan Vernado.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 26, 1993, at the Roberts Chapel, in Blackwell. The Rev. Kenneth Romines of the First Baptist Church will officiate. Interment will be in the I.O.O.F. Cemetery in Blackwell.

Honorary casketbearers will be David Nelson, Duane McConnell, Brian Chambers, Shawn Clark, Craig Chambers, Carl Thompson and Tom Tucker.

Casketbearers will be members of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars. Full military graveside rites will be conducted by the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

A memorial has been established with the American Legion Children's Home.

The family will be at the home of Joyce Goans, 406 Fairview, Blackwell, the day of the funeral.

Lost: $1 billion satellite, if found please call NASA

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — NASA scientists waited anxiously for the call that never came. Now they must contemplate the unthinkable: The Mars Observer flew right past the planet into oblivion.

"It's terrible, terrible, terrible," said Arden Albee, the project's chief scientist.

The wayward spacecraft hasn't been heard from since Saturday and failed to radio Earth as scheduled on Tuesday, when it was to fire its thrusters and drop into orbit around Mars.

With no word from the Observer, scientists simply didn't know if it started circling Mars, flew past it, or was destroyed or disabled after it was last heard from.

NASA scientists bravely insisted they hadn't given up on the Observer, launched in September on a $1 billion mission to study Martian terrain, climate and weather using sophisticated instruments, including a camera that can spot an object the size of a Volkswagen Beetle from a 234-mile-high orbit.

"I would like to believe the spacecraft is in orbit," project manager Glenn Cunningham said at NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory. "We will continue to try diligently to re-establish communications with the spacecraft."

And what were scientists doing to relieve the tension? "Screaming loudly," Cunningham said.

If the spacecraft hasn't received any of the commands sent to it in recent days, it should automatically start another computer program and try to contact Earth this afternoon.

If the craft has indeed settled into orbit and it's just a transmitter problem, it could stay safe for weeks while engineers try to regain contact.

But "if we don't get it toward the end of the week, then the hope is going to become, well, really, hope," said Albee, a dean at the California Institute of Technology.

Cunningham said that if engineers re-established contact by tonight and found the spacecraft had missed Mars, they might be able to send new commands to put it into a bigger but scientifically less valuable orbit around Mars.

If that didn't work, NASA might try to put the spacecraft in orbit in eight months to a year if it came back near Mars after swinging around the sun, mission manager Sam Dallas said.

Another possibility was that the Observer was destroyed during pressurization of its fuel tanks on Saturday, though an explosion was considered unlikely because of backup systems to regulate tank pressure.

The Mars Observer was to be the first U.S. robot explorer to reach the Red Planet since Viking 1 and 2 in 1976.

It started the 450-million-mile trip last year when a Titan rocket carried it from Cape Canaveral, Fla., into Earth orbit. Another rocket then kicked the Observer toward Mars.

On Tuesday, protesters outside Jet Propulsion Laboratory and at a Washington news conference accused NASA of trying to cover up evidence that alien creatures built face-like sculptures, pyramids and other structures on Mars.

They claimed NASA failed to place high priority on having Mars Observer take pictures of a face-like feature photographed on Mars in 1976 by one of the Viking orbiters. Scientists say the face is an unusual hill.

They also claimed a "rogue group" in NASA intentionally disabled Mars Observer to prevent it from photographing ruins of a Martian city.

"It's absolutely the craziest thing I've ever heard," Cunningham said. "There is absolutely no conspiracy. Everything about this mission is open to the public."

Siamese twins' father faces jail for probation violation

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Kenneth Lakeberg, the father of the Siamese twins who were separated so that one might live, could wind up in jail for violating the one-year probation he got for a stabbing last year.

Lakeberg, 26, pleaded guilty in May to a reduced charge of battery for stabbing a cousin during an argument last Christmas at his home in Wheatfield, Ind.

At the time, Lakeberg told the judge the argument erupted after he disclosed that his wife, Reitha, was pregnant with Siamese twins and that the couple were considering an abortion.

His probation officer filed a petition in June to have probation revoked, saying a random drug test had detected traces of cocaine. A hearing has been scheduled for Sept. 3.

Lakeberg admitted using maristation on Tuesday that he spent $8,000 in donations intended to pay medical bills on other expenses, including meals, car rentals and overdue bills. About $5,500 went to buy a car, he said.

"Sure, I went out and had some fun, but the fun's over, man," Lakeberg told WBBM-TV.

"We ate at nice places," he said. "We traveled good. I mean, I think we deserve at least that much."

Lakeberg has a string of other arrests, the newspaper reported. Lakeberg was charged with drunken driving in 1987, but pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of reckless driving, the newspaper reported. He also got a year's probation in 1989 for drunken driving.

A misdemeanor battery charged filed in 1990 was dismissed, the newspaper said.

Amy and Angela Lakeberg were born June 29 at Loyola University Medical Center in suburban

Cherokee Strip Run . . .

Ten or 12 miles along, we came upon a large work horse lying dead by the trail. No owner was in sight. Apparently he had gone on afoot. A great many horses, both good and bad, went out the same way that day.

After a half hour or so, we began to notice that every time we passed a little creek or a clump of brush we would find horses running beside us which had not been there before. These animals were hardly sweating at all while ours was in a lather.

We soon began to understand that the registration plan had failed miserably in its purpose; that men who had registered the first day, or the second, had departed quietly and for two day had been slipping over the border and hiding out in secluded spots. From those stations, they could emerge unobserved and join the rush as it swept past. Thus, while starting on a par with the leaders of the crowd, they had fresh horses to give them great advantage.

However, these were the timid Sooners. Their bolder brothers were yet out in front. To read them, you would think the worst thing that can happen to a state that just lost 20 percent of its congressional delegation is to have a senator serving as minority leader.

The core of the fantasy is that Dole doesn't care anything about Kansas and that, in a single-minded drive for the presidency, he's shuffled the needs of Kansans to the bottom of the in-basket. ...

"No one believes him," one paper whined. "He is surrounded...by many staff members who don't know Hutchinson from Atchison..."

The Dole staffer we've been in contact with recently not only knows Hutchinson from Atchison, but Idana from Broughton.

John F. Erickson, a former Clay Centerite, is in the process of logging 5,000 miles inside Kansas moving from community to community assessing flood damage and pushing reluctant rural community officials into seeking their share of federal disaster aid.

"Big Time" Ericson's task does have public relations value, but no where near enough to get his boss elected.

The Topeka Capital-Journal on mandates:

Move over, baseball. You are no longer the national pastime, having been replaced nicely by a new game: The Unfunded Mandate. If you've never heard of the game, it used to be called buck-passing. Of course, if you are a local politician, you know all too well what an unfunded mandate is and how popular it has become.

Simply put, it is a requirement, such as a new program, that one unit of government places on another without helping pay for it.

Upper-echelon politicians are devoted fans of the unfunded mandate game...It's a no-lose proposition for them. Not only does it get something socially valuable accomplished, but it also does so without a dollar of taxpayers' money — at least at that level of government. ...

Along with the League of Kansas Municipalities, the (Kansas Association of Counties) is lobbying for a constitutional amendment that would require new programs ordered by the state to be paid for by the state. Otherwise, the programs would be optional. ...

If governments are going to play the mandate game, they should

See a dentist

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My doctor says I am in danger of losing some of my teeth due to bone loss in my jaw. I can't understand his explanation of what causes it and don't know what I should be doing to prevent it from getting worse.

DEAR READER: Bone loss around teeth can be secondary to gum infection and inflammation of the supporting tissue (periodontal disease), as well as to aging. Osteoporosis can contribute to bone loss in the jaw, but much more commonly affects the spine and legs. Sometimes, calcium supplements, such as three or four TUMS daily, can help retard loss of bone around teeth.

However, as a primary-care physician, I've found that dentists are often the best resource because they are trained in methods, such as deep cleaning, that will assist patients with
